

BOOZE CONSPIRACY IS REVEALED

Allegations that Hospital Permits Were "Raised"

San Francisco—Further revelations as to additional quantities of alcohol illicitly withdrawn from the Western Distilleries Company at Agnews by the conspiracy of two women now under arrest have been made to federal authorities by a third woman, name unknown, who was questioned by the authorities for five hours in the customs house.

Arrest was made of a former matron of the Florence Crittendon home in this city. She was implicated by the confession of another woman accomplice who is also under arrest.

The place of the third woman in the liquor plot is not divulged by William G. Walker, chief field deputy of the internal revenue division, and Sam F. Rutter, supervising prohibition field agent.

Federal authorities have no hesitation in declaring that much more than the $46,000 worth of alcohol was looted from the distillery by the "raising" of small hospital permits.

It was learned that the heads of the Florence Crittendon Home had never applied for an alcohol permit at all, though records show that one was granted to the home by former Collector of Internal Revenue Justus Wardell.

Miss Mary L. Mullen, superintendent of the institution, stated that her suspicions were aroused when she found, shortly after the discharge of the former matron for insubordination, a considerable quantity of alcohol locked in a little-used hall closet.

As the institution had no use for alcohol, she was unable to explain its presence. Later the offices of the internal revenue collector communicated with her in regard to a permit. Miss Mullen knew of no permit. The revelations followed.

JAP SCHOOL BILL PASSED

Segregation of Nipponese Is Demanded

Sacramento—Assemblyman Carlton W. Greene's bill to provide separate public schools for Japanese children has been passed by unanimous vote in the Assembly.

Opposition to it that might have developed was buried under the arguments which the author of the bill advanced. In fact, there was only the semblance of possible objection when Assemblyman Frank Merrill of Long Beach put some questions on the point of accommodation for the Japanese children.

"We are legislating here for American children," tartly replied Greene. The vote was: yes, 62; noes, 0.

The bill as passed goes now to the Senate. It is the second the Assembly has passed this session involving the problem of the Japanese and the school system of the state.

Assemblyman Ivan H. Parker's bill to put a check on Japanese propaganda through the Buddhist schools established throughout the state by the Japanese, is already under way in the Senate.

QUICK POSTAL SERVICE

Day and Night Air Mail, San Francisco To New York

New York—A continuous day and night air mail service between San Francisco and New York will be established on May 1. It has been announced to night by Otto Praeger, second assistant postmaster general. The planes will operate on a thirty-six hour schedule, with the possibility of their bettering that time. The value of such an arrangement in transporting business and other important documents was stressed by Praeger, who said that all the San Francisco mail addressed to New York City in one day can be carried in a single plane.

NEW MEXICAN REVOLT REPORTED

Obregon Decree Bars Foreign Labor From Country

El Paso, Tex.—Press dispatches from Mexico City, received in El Paso, tell of the formation of a revolution in Mexico, headed by Luis Cabrera, "the man with the brains behind Carranza's government," and his brother, Alfonso Cabrera, and Ignacio Bonillas, former representative of Mexico to the United States.

The dispatch said the brothers had put up $5,000,000 pesos to finance the movement, which was started in the mountains of Puebla, principally among the Indians. General Gabriel also is mentioned as helping to provide the money for the plot. It is reported that rebels hope to make Luis Cabrera president.

Washington—All foreign laborers, and particularly American laborers, have been barred from Mexico by a decree issued by President Obregon, a copy of which was received at the state department. The reason assigned was that an influx of foreigners would serve to prevent the full employment of native labor during the period of scarcity of work.

The decree, it is understood, was aimed more directly at the situation in the oil fields, but no specific reference to this was made in the document.

JAPAN DEVELOPS AIR PLANS

Japanese Plan Elaboration of Naval Aviation.

Washington—Embarkation by Japan on an elaborate program of naval aviation is to be expected, in the opinion of officials, by the activity of Japan in the purchase of airplanes in Europe and in the endeavor to enlist the expert advice of British naval flyers.

Until recently, naval statistics show, Japan had made little or no provisions for naval aviation, but advances received recently in official circles declare there have been unusual activities in that branch.

Disappointed at the failure of the British naval air mission to send to Japan this year, at the request of Japan, thirty officers and men to give expert instruction, the Japanese Government has obtained instead a private mission of twenty ex-naval flying officers and men from Great Britain, according to the reports.

These experts, the advices declare, are to be used in instructing the new Japanese naval air service. The party, which is expected to arrive in Japan in a few weeks, is taking several late model Short and Vicker airplanes.

It is stated that France has been given an order for three six-passenger Spad type, fifty Breguet type equipped for day bombardment, ten Nieuport type double command and twenty of similar type with similar command.

In addition, Japan has begun the building of an aircraft carrier as an adjunct to the battle fleet capable of carrying thirty or forty planes. Completion this spring of a new airplane factory also is reported.

HER JOYOUS EASTER MORNING

THE EASTER LILY.

When Easter bells began to ring
And Easter day arose
An angel found beside the church
A wreath of winter snows.
The April sun had failed to melt
The tiny drift away,
And, sparkling coldly in the light,
Still frozen hard it lay.

The angel took the frosty flakes,
And tenderly he wrought,
With loving care and patience rare,
The blossom of his thought.
Each perfect petal grew apace,
And last of all, behold,
He fashioned, full of rich perfume,
A heart of gleaming gold.

With dreams of shining robes he worked
And golden gates ajar
And shaped the fair and finished flower
In memory of a star.
Then, gliding in the ancient church,
Where all was dark and still,
Upon the crimson altar cloth
He laid the Easter lily.

—Minna Irving.

Easter Eggs of Flowers.
Today not only the size of the Easter egg, but also the value of its contents play an important part, at least in America. Thus, it is not rare that an insignificant looking chocolate egg contains as a precious surprise the costliest jewels, such as earrings, bracelets, etc. Not long ago the pretty fashion came in vogue of making Easter eggs of flowers, so arranged as to reproduce exactly the oval form of the egg. For this purpose violets and roses are commonly used, but in recent times orchids are being preferred, especially in England. Thus, a few years ago a London florist got an order for an Easter egg of orchids, costing no less than $1,000.

"B. L. T." IS DEAD

Chicago.—Bert Leston Taylor, "B. L. T.," editor of the Chicago Tribune's "A Line o' Type or Two," died last week from pneumonia.

Mrs. J. W. Rathbun, aged 59, was found dead in her night clothes three miles out of Lodi last week. She had been stabbed and terribly beaten. The body was lying about 200 yards from the house. The woman had evidently been overtaken and stabbed and beaten to death, as she fled. Her husband is missing.

EASTER SONG

JOHN E. DOLSEN

Though I know the very brightness of its beauty
Of the purse, I do not care a picayune for that.
Though the times are filled with sadness,
My heart is thrilled with gladness
In a way to make me wonder where "I'm at"
When I look upon the neatness, the completeness of the sweetness
Of Ethel—when she wears her Easter hat.

Easter Week

SEE the land her Easter keeping,
Rises as her Maker rose.
Seeds, so long in darkness sleeping,
Burst at last from winter snows.
Earth, with heaven above, rejoices;
Fields and gardens hail the spring;
Shaws and woodlands ring with voices,
While the wild birds build and sing.
You, to whom your Maker granted
Powers to those sweet birds unknown,
Use the craft by God implanted,
Use the reason not your own.
Here, while heaven and earth rejoice,
Each his Easter tribute bring—
Work of fingers, chant of voices,
Like the birds who build and sing.
—CHARLES KINGSLEY.

LEGALITY OF IMPORTING LABOR TO BE TESTED

Salinas—The practice of the Spreckels Sugar Company of importing Mexican laborers under contract is to be tested in court. This became known Tuesday when Attorney Fred P. Felz of this city filed applications in the Superior Court for writs of habeas corpus in behalf of Pedro Martinez, Juan M. Pena, Trinidad Contreras and Francisco Ramirez, who jumped their contracts and have been arrested. Although importation of laborers under contract violates a Federal statute, the statute was set aside during the war by a special order of the Department of Labor.

An automobile containing Sheriff Ralph Byrnes of Mendocino County and his wife and child went off a bridge at Healdsburg, overturning and pinning occupants beneath the car. Other autoists rescued the party shortly afterward. Mrs. Byrnes was seriously injured.

The attendance at both games was good, showing our boys they have the moral support of the town.

FATHER AND SON AT "BIG EATS"

Campbell's annual Father and Son "Y" banquet, held at the Methodist church parlors Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable and enlightening affair.

The dinner, a big attraction, had been prepared by the ladies of the church, who have long since held an enviable reputation for being "good cooks."

Under the leadership of Secretary Harold V. Lucas the boys, old and young, enjoyed a community sing followed by a singing contest and yells. At the close of the "eats" an informal program was given.

Johnnie Duncan spoke on the subject, "The Kind of a Dad the Lad Likes," and placed particular stress on the point of the father's interest in the boy and his interests.

D. H. Cramer spoke of "the Kind of Dad Dad wants," emphasizing the upright traits and the directing of boy nature in desired channels. John Pardee, Jr., gave a very comprehensive and interesting report of the older boys' conference held in Sacramento recently.

Mr. Lucas paid our local leaders, Fred Bohman, James Huntley and T. C. Cutting, assisted by Walter Farr, most glowing compliments for the excellent work they are carrying on in our community, one of the most promising in the county.

After showing moving pictures of Camp Roberts at La Honda, Mr. Ralph Smedley, general secretary of the San Jose "Y," gave a very entertaining and interesting talk on "When a Feller Needs a Friend." His point well taken convinced his hearers that when a feller needs a friend is throughout his life but most during his adolescent period. The Y is doing everything to make friendships and associations that will keep "lads and dads" the best of friends through life and is deserving of the united support of every community where there are boys.

OUR DEBT TO THE TELEPHONE GIRL

The telephone operator sits in her chair
And listens to the voices from everywhere.
She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news,
She knows who is happy and who has the blues;
She knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys,
She knows every girl that is chasing the boys;
She knows of our troubles, she knows of our strife;
She knows every man who talks mean to his wife;
She knows every time we are out with the boys;
She hears every excuse each fellow employs;
She knows every man who's inclined to be "fast";
She knows when wife scolded you last;
In fact, there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl
Of that quiet demure little telephone girl.
If the telephone girl told all that she knows,
It would turn half our friends into bitter foes;
She could sow a small wind that would soon be a gale,
Engage us in trouble and land us in jail;
She could get all our churches mixed up in a fight;
In fact, she could keep the whole town in a stew.
If she would tell a tenth of the things she knew,
O brother, now doesn't it make your head whirl,
When you think what you owe to the telephone girl?
—Selected.

ROAD WORK PROGRESSING

The good weather of the past week has enabled Contractor Connor to rush the highway work between here and Alma. He is very optimistic that the highway will be completed between these points before the rush annual Santa Cruz traffic starts in.

A considerable portion of retaining wall work has been completed and a large stretch of roadway is now ready for concreting.

Mr. Connor plans to have three gangs of men at work soon to enable him to have the entire work completed by July.

Supervisor Cooley states that he will put the Bear Creek road in good condition for travel by the time the state highway has been completed to Alma. In this way autoists will be able to reach Santa Cruz from Los Gatos by going to Alma and from there over the Bear Creek road.

If Contractor Connor's plans carry, the balance of the road from Alma to Glenwood will be finished not later than August 1. Los Gatos Mail-News.

Public Service and Your Bank

We have of late been speaking, in our weekly talks, of the various kinds of community service in which your bank has a part. It now remains to mention one service of special nature, one that has brought the bank no direct monetary return.

During the war period every individual and every institution was asked to serve the nation in its hour of stress. The public was called upon to help by the purchase of Liberty Bonds. The work of handling the bonds fell to the banks, and in this labor the local bank had a modest share.

Through your bank, bonds were sold to 2,126 individuals, who received from us 2,522 certificates. The sum subscribed by these investors totalled $418,350. All the labor involved in this service—our part in securing the subscriptions, the bookkeeping, the exchange for permanent bonds, and the delivery—were contributed by your bank without material compensation of any sort.

Yet the bank was, after all, well paid for this sacrifice of time and labor in a high cause by the sense of duty performed. Public service called us, and we heartily responded. We count ourselves fortunate indeed that we were thus able to serve both our government and our community.

Incidentally, the work still goes on. There are still First, Second, Third and Fourth Liberty Loans in temporary form. Bring them to us and we will gladly see that they are exchanged for Permanent Coupon Bonds.

"Caladero" Pumpkin Flour

"The world do move." It's a far cry from grandfather's cellar, with its big bin of pumpkins stored for the winter, to a can of "Caladero" Pumpkin Flour, occupying about four square inches of space on your pantry shelf, and ready for instant use. ### Grant's Hygienic Crackers:

"You sell more Grant's Crackers than all the rest of my customers put together!"—that was the remark of the jobber's salesman. He was puzzled. ### Isleton Butter:

Ask for the butter in the green carton, if you can't remember the name. It was a bit of humor on the part of Sam Greene, pioneer of California butter makers, to put his highest grade product in a green wrapper. He started it good, too, and kept it so—as uniformly as up-to-date dairy science can make it.

That isn't to say that Isleton never misses, but it rarely does. However, we make good. You take no risks.

They enjoyed a real thrill on their return by being run down by a railway train but escaped with but slight damage to the auto.

MRS. WOLFF HONOR GUEST

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. G. S. Robson was at home to a number of her lady friends in honor of Mrs. C. W. Wolff, also of Harrison Avenue.

Blossoms in artistic profusion throughout the rooms vied with those outside to lend a charm to the beautiful day.

Interspersed with "babble of many voices" and the serving of dainty refreshments the company was favored with greatly appreciated vocal selections by Mrs. Warren Shelly and Mrs. Ralph Hyde for whom Mrs. Robson played, and by Mrs. Muriel Palmer Rudolf, accompanied by Miss Emelyn Beattie. Miss Beattie kindly consented to play two piano numbers and Miss Lucile Strong played the "Hungarian Rhapsody," which was enthusiastically encored.

Just before the time for departure Mrs. Wolff introduced Baby Ethel Louise, who was quite a co-star with her mother as "guest of honor."

Mrs. Robson was assisted by her daughter, Miss Joyce, and a number of the ladies present.

Punch and cake were served and then the party broke up with much praise of the good time they had had.

Easter Morning
Breakfast Made a
Time of Real Joy

IT WAS my good fortune one time to be visiting in a family where Easter was celebrated in a very pretty fashion. When we came down to the breakfast table in the morning we found it looking so beautiful it seemed a pity to disturb its beauty by the prosaic act of eating. The dining room was a particularly sunny, attractive room to start with, and the beautiful table this morning was set with its usual gay blue and yellow china, but in addition the center of the table held a great mass of yellow daffodils standing in a clear crystal float. For the benefit of the children little yellow ducks and chickens were perched along its edge and at each plate was found one of the flowers for our personal adornment.

Everything we had for breakfast that morning seemed to glow with yellow; the grapefruit had a brighter tinge than usual, the rolls and toast a delicious golden brown; and when our eggs were served each one had been baked in a little yellow ramekin. The whites had been beaten until they puffed up above the cup and tinged a delicate yellow brown in the oven, and nestled in the top of each fluff was the yellow yolk of the egg. At the plate of each child was an attractive yellow basket with a little nest of variegated colored tissue paper—for had not the bunnies been busy during the night leaving eggs around the house for the children to gather in the morning? They could hardly wait to eat their breakfast so eager were they to be off.

corners of stuffed chairs, back of table legs, tucked away in the big piano, under sofa cushions, on the mantelpiece, in the fireplace—every spot, in fact, that could be found not too hard for the children to discover.

This is, of course the pretty custom which grew out of the old superstition that if the children of the household were truthful kind and obedient a white hare would come into the home at night and hide colored eggs in odd corners of the house. The egg as we all know is the symbol of the resurrection. Easter day is governed by the moon, and the hare is the ancient symbol or figure of the moon.

There are a number of amusing customs connected with Easter, as with all the other holidays, some of which are familiar to us and others not. We are all of course quite accustomed to the idea of new clothes on Easter, but the people who scorn this fashion and wear theirs a few weeks before or after that day little know of the risk they run of having bad luck the rest of the year. The day used to be known as "Joy Sunday," and there was an old superstition that unless one wore something new on that day bad luck would follow throughout the year. Another belief was that if the wind blew from the east on Easter morning, and if you drew some fresh water and bathed your face and hands it would then be impossible for the east wind to harm you throughout the year.

Where the Peach Stones Were.

A 500-ton mountain of peach stones was recently thrown upon the New York local fuel market as a substitute for coal. The stones were gathered by patriotic Americans in war time to be used in the manufacture of gas masks. They found a ready market at $1 a ton and were distributed to the needy.—Dearborn Independent.

The Art of Panhandling.
"Move on, you bum," said the large policeman.
"I ain't no bum," answered the tattered stranger, indignantly.
"What are you, then?"
"I'm a prospector."
"Umph! What do you prospect for?"
"The milk of human kindness."

Hardly Consoling.
"The idea of applying for that position haunts me."
"No wonder; you haven't the ghost of a show."

LANDS OPEN TO SERVICE MEN

Washington—Lands in the Santa Fe district, New Mexico, totalling 1,499,000 acres, have been opened for entry by the Department of the Interior and forty-seven applications were approved under the stockraising homestead laws. The remainder of the land is available for entry under a sixty-three day priority for former service men.

PLAN AIRSHIPS
800 FEET LONG

Prediction Is Made That Huge
Craft Will Be Used in Regular Transatlantic Trips.

AIR LINER IS ON THE WAY

Long-Distance Craft of the Future May
Be Plane, but Experts at London
Conference Predict Lighter-
Than-Air Type.

London.—In awarding prizes recently for new types of airplanes built by British manufacturers, the government took occasion to deplore what it viewed as a retrogression in the field of aerial research. Manufacturers of aircraft, in answering the criticism, replied that one could not hope, in times of peace, for as rapid developments as were possible when the exigencies of war made expense and human life comparatively of little importance.

Nevertheless, some bold predictions have been made at the air conference which met at the Guildhall. There were, of course, speeches which embodied the dreams of every reader of Jules Verne or H. G. Wells, and there were graphic pictures of the great air liners of the future. But there also were sober talks by distinguished scientists, who paid more attention to such practical details as wing tips and automatic controls than to visions.

The air liner is on the way, there is no doubt about that; but it is going to come as a result of tireless and patient research and experimenting; it is going to embody a detail here and a suggestion there, and when it is finally turned out on a profitable basis it will provide a mode of travel as safe as and infinitely more swift than any land transport.

Craft Eight Hundred Feet Long.

The long distance aircraft of the future may be an airplane, but it is more likely that a lighter-than-air type will prevail.

What are the requirements for a craft capable of carrying out a sustained flight, say, from England to Australia?

According to the experts at the Guildhall, each craft would be about 800 feet long, with a gas capacity of at least 4,000,000 cubic feet. The "R" dirigibles already constructed in England hold more than 3,000,000 cubic feet, so that this seems by no means an impossible provision. An average speed of 60 miles an hour would be required—something already achieved. It is estimated that a dirigible constructed on this basis would carry 100 passengers, for whom comfortable, properly heated and well ventilated living, dining and sleeping quarters would be provided.

Inasmuch as the dirigible would fly in a direct line, it would be able to make the London-Cape Town journey in five days, whereas the ocean trip now requires 18 days. India might be reached in four days, as against 16 at present.

Even though passenger-carrying at first might not prove practicable, it seems probable that before long mails for the frigates of the British empire may be carried by the air route. It is calculated that the whole weekly mail from Britain for Egypt, South Africa, India, Australia and New Zealand could be transported in one dirigible for each route. Sir Trevor Dawson, vice-chairman of Vickers, Limited, the great aeronautic firm, is authority for the statement that the fire danger for a dirigible is really no greater than that of any ocean liner.

One of the great drawbacks to the use of the dirigibles—the difficulty of housing them in storms—may be avoided by mooring them to great masts and allowing them to float at the end of their cables. It is said that a skillful captain can, in still weather, bring a huge dirigible to her mooring with the aid of only half a dozen men, and that even in heavy winds nothing like the small army which now is necessary to place a dirigible in its hangar will be needed safely to moor the great airships.

A great mast, to be fitted with lifts, petrol and water mains, and with powerful cables and hauling apparatus, is to be erected at Howden, Yorkshire, to test the practicability of this arrangement.

It is obvious that English aircraft firms are much interested in the German bid for air supremacy, and apparently a little worried by it. The rumor of an early service of super-Zeppelins from Berlin to New York, Chicago and San Francisco, which has been handed about for a month or so, was seriously treated at the Guildhall conference; in fact, it was made the basis for an appeal for prompt British embarkation upon a policy of the construction of similar or greater airships.

Dirigible Floats Over London.

The appeal finds the more response because London recently has witnessed the sight, unusual since the days of Zeppelin raids, of huge dirigibles floating far above it. On the occasion of the Prince of Wales' homecoming the R-32, manned by the American crew which will take the 4-38 back to America next spring, sailed gracefully above the procession made up by the prince's carriage and his escort. Later other large ships from the airbase at Croydon were employed to give the delegates to the air conference a demonstration of their ability.

FINE FURNITURE

"I DROPPED in to see Mrs. Wigglemeyer today," announced Mrs. Jamesworthy, "and she showed me through the house. They have the finest mahogany furniture I have seen in a long time. I hope I am not envious or covetous, but when I contemplated that beautiful furniture, and thought of our own old stuff, I felt sick at heart. I love beautiful things, and have been deprived of them all my days."

"It's a pity about you," said Jamesworthy. "You'd better go out to the woodshed and hold an indignation meeting and pass a series of resolutions denouncing your toil-worn husband because he hasn't furnished you with marble halls and vassals and serfs by your side."

"You know that I am swaybacked and kneesprung as a result of my heroic efforts to keep the wolf from the door. If you were the right sort of woman you would say, after seeing the Wigglemeyer outfit, 'My esteemed husband may not be able to surround me with such oriental luxury and magnificence, but everything we have, from the sanitary couch to the plush rocker, is paid for, and it is better to sit on a nail keg free from incumbrance, than to bask at ease on a Persian divan that may be confiscated by the installment house the first time we miss a payment.'"

"If you would look at things in that light, Mrs. Jamesworthy, I would feel more like continuing the struggle to sidestep the poorhouse."

"Suppose we had the house full of sumptuous furniture, what better off would you be? There might be a sneaking satisfaction in showing it off to visitors, but such satisfaction is an unholy thing. It is the pride that goeth before destruction. It is vanity and vexation of spirit. Only a mean-spirited beldame will exhibit her gorgeous rosewood furniture to a woman who has to struggle along with a bed and dresser made of a cheap grade of pine."

"When the shades of night have fallen fast, and Mrs. Wigglemeyer goes to her bedroom and to her imposing mahogany bed, do you suppose she sleeps in it any better than you do in your golden oak bed that went out of fashion twenty years ago? I trow not, Mrs. Jamesworthy. That golden oak bed must have narcotic qualities, for the way you sleep is a caution to mummies. If you could hear yourself snoring you'd be perfectly satisfied with a couch that makes such snoring possible."

"In these degenerate days the women think of nothing but making a big display. If they can't do it in their millinery, they want to do it in their houses. They forget that all grandeur is superfluous. You get nothing out of it. What is a bed for? To sleep in; and when you sleep you are unconscious. Then what difference does it make whether you sleep in a $500 mahogany bed, or a $1 cotton hammock? What is a chair for? To sit in; and you can sit just as well in a rustic chair that you bought at a second-hand store, as you can in the chair of ebony inlaid with pearl."

"When I was young, women were different. My sainted mother had no use for expensive furniture. Father always was dissatisfied with the bed he had to sleep in. He made it himself, with an ax and crowbar, when he was a young man. The slats were always falling out of it and dumping my revered parent on the floor, and when he picked himself up he used to say things that had smoke on them. As he grew older he wanted a new modern bed, but mother wouldn't stand for it. She wouldn't hear of such extravagance. She used to tell father that he wouldn't be able to sleep in a first-class bed, he had so long been used to finding his feet about a yard higher than his head when he woke. Finally my mother—"

"I wish it was 'finally' with your mother," said Mrs. Jamesworthy. "I'm sick of hearing of her."

Thomas Jefferson's Bible.

In 1904 congress caused to be reproduced in photolithographic form the so-called Jefferson Bible, or more correctly, "The Morals and Life of Jesus of Nazareth," extracted textually from the gospels in Greek, Latin, French and English, by Thomas Jefferson. Texts were cut by him out of printed copies of Greek, Latin, French and English Testaments and pasted in four parallel columns on blank pages, which later were bound in red morocco, ornamented in gilt, and titled on the back in gilt letters, "The Morals of Jesus." The original is in the United States museum at Washington, and 9,000 duplicate copies for the use of congress were printed in 1904.

DOES SMITH KNOW HIS NAME?

For a good, honest, straightforward name with no frills "John Smith" is hard to beat, and John might reasonably be expected to know his name wherever he heard it, especially as it is a name found the world over in use by every people. The chances are, however, that John would not know whether a newly-made Russian acquaintance was addressing him or choking on a fishbone when he said "Jonloff Smitovski." In Poland the name becomes slightly more sneeze-like, Ivan Schmittiweiski, and almost musical in the mouths of the Tuscaroras, who say Tam Qua Smith-tia.

It is quite certain that our John would not answer to the name Yo Seef, but if he were a Turkish John Smith he would, and Pon Sinikton would be proper if he were a Greek. In Mexico he would be written down Jontle P'Smitri, while the Icelanders would call him Jahnne Smithson. In Latin the name becomes Johannes Smithus, while the modern Italian reels it off as Giovanni Smithi. In German John Smith becomes Hans Schmidt, but this he can change to Jean Smeets by crossing the line into France, and, if he doesn't care for the sound of this, he can attain the more stately Juan Smithus by moving on into Spain—The Open Road.
